Langevin River

The river Langevin crosses the city from Saint Joseph, by flowing from north to south.

It is a beautiful succession of small waterfalls, with toboggans and jumps up to 8 meters, Tyrolean and guided recall. You can go hiking, climbing.

Bassin de Manapany

Located a few steps from the town of Saint-Joseph, the site has remained relatively wild.

To the south of the bay (below the parking lot), you can swim in a natural basin delimited by vegetation and black rocks, but not out of the basin because it is dangerous with sharks ! One can also picnic and walk.

The vegetation that surrounds the beach is a privileged habitat for the green lizard of Manapany called the Gecko. It is endemic to the island and to this part of the south coast in particular.

The Manapany-les-Bains site has a surf spot, a competition is organized at the Manapany Surf Festival each year.
